OFFICIAL GOLF DIRECTORY

Stonehaven Course at The Resort at Glade Springs, Daniels

There are many reasons West Virginia is called the outdoor recreation capital of the East. Golf is one of them. This 2012 Golf Directory is a resource to help you plan your golfing adventure to the Mountain State. It's broken down into the nine travel regions, listing the more than 100 courses in the state. And we've given you an editorial snapshot of some of the state's top courses and resorts, as well as some non-golfing activities to fill your days and/or nights. More information is available online at www.wvtourism.com/golf.

WELCOME GOLFERS

West Virginia invites you to a new standard of golf vacation. Forget every golf trip you've ever taken with your friends and take a look at all the wonderful golf courses in the Mountain State; courses located among rolling hills, along raging rivers and in peaceful valleys. Many of the layouts in this scenic state were designed by the game's best... Palmer, Nicklaus, Dye, Cobb, Jones, and Player to name a few.

West Virginia's hills and valleys make for a different type of golfing experience: challenging but fun. Unique golf adventures await you just about anywhere in the state. The waits are short, the prices are low, and the pace is leisurely. No matter where you play, the scenery is always spectacular, the mountain air is fresh, and your golf clubs will take you away from the stress of life. And with the small sampling of golf packages listed on the next page, it's easier than ever to plan and book your West Virginia golf vacation.

West Virginia does indeed beckon the golf traveler to its mountain heights and valley lows to experience a wide variety of award-winning resorts and courses. Moderate springs, scenic and colorful falls, and much cooler summer temperatures than the rest of the southeast come together with the Mountain State's location just a day's drive from half of the country's population to create a convenient and exciting golf destination.

Eastern Panhandle

TRAVEL REGION

Cacapon Resort State Park, Berkeley Springs

The Eastern Panhandle region located between Maryland and Virginia is an interesting mix of historical sites, therapeutic spas, and thrilling, live thoroughbred racing. History buffs will enjoy a visit to the well-preserved Shepherdstown, the oldest town in the state and Harpers Ferry National Historic Park, the site of abolitionist John Brown's failed attack on slavery. It's also the national headquarters for the famed Appalachian Trail. A number of mineral springs provide healing waters in the eclectic town of Berkeley Springs. And the region boasts gaming excitement at Hollywood Casino at Charles Town Races. The casino offers year-round live thoroughbred racing, more than 5,000 video slot machines and a variety of tables games. And the golf offerings in this northeastern part of the state are just as varied and provocative.

The casual Woods Resort in Hedgesville

features two scenic 18-hole courses, a spa, restaurant, and on-site condos. The Mountain View course wanders around a wooded plateau along Third Hill Mountain which dominates its views. Carved from a forest, Mountain View's fairways are framed by dogwood, maple, oak, and pine trees. Most holes play flat and fair, but several water hazards and the medium-sized greens prove challenging. The most difficult hole is number 6, a 415-yard, par 4, requiring an approach shot over a canyon to a well-bunkered green. The Mountain View course rates 4 stars from Golf Digest's Places to Play, an annual survey of subscribers, considered one of the most reliable rating sources in the industry. The Woods Resort's Stony Lick mid-length course is well maintained and has medium-sized greens. Water hazards also come into play to create a challenge on several of its holes.

Minutes from the Woods Resort sits the first of five state parks with golf courses, Cacapon Resort State Park, home to a Robert Trent Jones Sr. designed layout. At 2,300 feet above sea level, set between two mountain ranges, the challenging championship golf course makes prime use of the rolling foothills at the base of the ridge. There are three ponds on the course which come into play on four holes. The course has several other water hazards in the form of small streams coming from the mountain side. The course is known for a double green that is over 100 yards wide. Golf Digest has named the course the number one municipal course in West Virginia, as well as in the top ten overall in the state. The course has a 4 star rating from Golf Digest's Places to Play. This state park resort offers a nostalgic

Mountain View at The Woods Resort, Hedgesville

48-room lodge with restaurant, plus a 12-room group lodge known as The Old Inn. It was the first lodging in the state park system.

Also in the region is the mostly undiscovered Locust Hill Golf Course near Charles Town. This 18-hole scenic layout continuously receives 4 stars from Golf Digest's Places to Play.

Hatfield-McCoy Mountains

TRAVEL REGION

Twisted Gun Golf Course, Wharnccliffe

The Hatfield-McCoy Mountains Region is located in the southwestern corner of West Virginia along the Kentucky border. Its mountainous topography has allowed golf course architects to create challenging layouts. It's this same rolling terrain which has made this region of West Virginia a mecca of sorts for adrenaline junkies, as home to the well-known Hatfield-McCoy Trails. This is not a golf trail though, this is a system of trails for all-terrain vehicles or ATVs. As one of the largest off-highway vehicle trail systems in the world, Hatfield-McCoy Trails stretch more than 500 miles and offer something for every skill level. Trails range from the scenic mountain views of Pinnacle Creek, to the tight and twisting trails of Bearwallow. Many trails connect to West Virginia's "ATV friendly towns" where visitors can grab a bite to eat and experience true Southern hospitality.

The region was named for the famous post

Civil War decade-long feud between the Hatfield and McCoy families. Labor battles are also part of the mountainous region's history, with conflict between coal miners and mining companies in the 1920s. With mines located throughout, the importance of coal from a lifestyle and historical perspective permeates the region. In fact, the Coal Heritage Museum is located in Madison and a re-enactment of one of those labor disputes, turned bloody battle, is held annually in the small town of Matewan.

The nearby Twisted Gun Golf Club in Wharnccliffe is appropriately known as the jewel of the coal fields. This links-style course is placed on a former mine site in southern Mingo county. With forgiving fairways and smooth greens, the course has four sets of tees, playing from 7,015 yards from the back tees to only 5,155 yards from the forward tees. Twisted Gun was recognized by GolfOnline.com as a "Top Fifty under Fifty" in the country, ranking 17th of courses that the public can play for under fifty dollars.

The small town of Lavalette is home to two 18-hole golf courses. Sugarwood Golf Club is a championship layout. Its front nine has tree-lined fairways and water coming into play on three holes. A railroad track runs through the middle of the course, but it seldom gets used. The back nine has three lakes coming into play. Its signature hole is number 13, a 171-yard, par 3, which requires an accurate tee shot to an undulating, island green.

Twin Silos at Lavalette is a hilly course featuring water hazards, mature trees, and sand bunkers incorporated into its design. Strategically placed ponds come into play on at least eight holes. This well-maintained course also boasts impeccable landscaping. The signature hole is number 9, a 350-yard, par 4, featuring a double green.

Metro Valley

TRAVEL REGION

The Metro Valley Region of West Virginia is home to the state's two most populous cities, Charleston, the state capital and Huntington, home to Marshall University. Both metropolitan areas offer a variety of cultural activities and dining choices. The golf courses in the region are traditionally maintained and take advantage of the rolling hills and waterways throughout.

A suburb of the capital city, South Charleston is home to Little Creek Golf Course. Established in 1921, it boasts a challenging 6,096 yard layout, which winds over and around beautiful mountains, demanding a variety of shots and placing a premium on accuracy off the tee.

The Kanawha County Park & Recreation Commission operates two golf courses in the Charleston area. Big Bend Golf Course is an 18-hole championship golf course located in Tornado. The county-owned course was designed with every skill level in mind. The fairways are tree-lined, and water comes into play on three holes. Some of the greens are large and have enough slope to test putting skills. The Coal River flows alongside part of the course and adds to the beautiful scenery.

Coonskin Park features the county's 18-hole, par 3 golf course and driving range. This executive course was built on flat terrain among rolling hillsides. The course is open in places and challenging in others as the tree-lined fairways can be quite tight. There are small, target greens on some holes and mounding throughout. The Elk River flows alongside the course on the back nine. The most difficult hole is number 13, a 295-yard, par 4, featuring a dogleg left fairway.

The region is also home to the Mardi Gras Casino Resort, conveniently located off Interstate 64 just west of Charleston, offering live greyhound racing, table games and slots.

Mid-Ohio Valley

Golf Club of West Virginia, Waverly

The Mid-Ohio Valley Region of the state is bordered by Ohio, with the wide Ohio River separating the two states. Rolling hills and valleys define the Mid-Ohio Valley Region, providing an abundance of outdoor activities. These include boating, fishing, mountain biking, birding, canoeing, camping and, of course, golf.

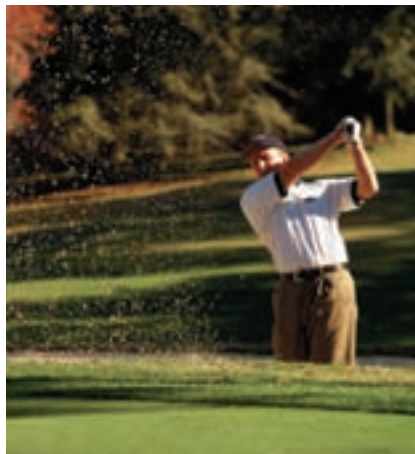

A major metropolis for the region is Parkersburg. The city's rich heritage, much of it involving the early oil and gas industry, is presented at several museums and historic sites. Most notable among these is the Blennerhassett Island Historical State Park, home to a 7,000 square foot mansion built in 1798. It's preserved in its original glory and open for tours, providing a snapshot of what life was like for the wealthy barons in the late 18th and early 19th centuries.

Parkersburg is home to two publicly-accessible courses. Worthington Golf Club was built on relatively flat terrain, so it's a favorite among walkers. A creek, which winds throughout the layout, provides a challenge on several holes. The South Hills Golf Club is a championship 18-hole design with each hole offering its own unique set of challenges. Measuring just under 6,500 yards from the back tees with spacious landing areas strategically accented by both fairway and green-side bunkers, accurate shot-making is a must. Water hazards are encountered on several of the holes. A meandering stream flows throughout most of the course.

Greenhills Country Club in Ravenswood offers one of the areas more challenging layouts. The 18-hole championship course has a lengthy, yet wide open, front nine and a hilly, shorter and tighter back nine. The course boasts some of the best maintained greens in the state.

The 18-hole Golf Club of West Virginia in Waverly features rolling fairways, well-manicured greens and a player-friendly layout. The course, which opened in 1959, was constructed on hilly terrain but provides generous landing areas in the fairways. Water hazards, in the form of a large lake and four small ponds, come into play on six holes. The course was cut out of a forest so many of the fairways are tree-lined. The signature hole is number four, a 541-yard, par 5, featuring a unique green that is shaped like the state of West Virginia.

Mountaineer Country

TRAVEL REGION

Mountainview Course at Lakeview Golf Resort & Spa, Morgantown

Tucked halfway between the two panhandle regions is the Mountaineer Country Region. Morgantown, home to seven golf courses, is golf-central for the region. It's located just an hour south of Pittsburgh. As home to West Virginia University, the town offers lots of nightlife and dining options, as well as other outdoor activities, such as mountain biking, rafting and fishing.

Lakeview Resort in Morgantown offers two championship golf courses, a full service spa, two restaurants, a 187-room hotel with standard guestrooms and suites, as well as 52 two-bedroom, fully-equipped condos alongside one of the courses. The resort's two 18-hole courses are distinctly different. The historic Lakeview Course opened its first nine holes in 1950 and the second nine in 1954. The Lakeview Course is rated 4 stars by Golf Digest's Places to Play and has been rated among the top 100 public courses in America. The course offers an intricate tree-lined design, featuring large undulating greens, tight fairways and scenic views. The Lakeview Course boasts two signature holes - the 564-yard 7th which features a 180-foot vertical drop from tee to green and offers beautiful views of Cheat Lake and the 620-yard 18th which is one of the most challenging par 5s you'll ever encounter. The green has never been reached in two.

The newer Mountainview Course was designed by Bryan Ault and opened in 1985. The course winds through the foothills of the Allegheny Mountains, is very hilly and challenging, and its medium-sized greens have some undulation. It's rated 3 1/2 stars by Golf Digest's Places to Play.

Also in the greater Morgantown area is Alpine Lake Resort in Terra Alta. The 18-hole course at this laid back resort is challenging with narrow fairways and small greens, some of which are elevated. Water only comes into play on two holes, but it does so with gusto on the 10th hole as the green is surrounded by water on three sides. The Alpine Lake Resort, which features an on-site motel for convenient and value-priced golf packages, was chosen by Golf Traveler magazine as being a top-50

"scenic & friendly" destination in the U.S.

The Mountaineer Region also boasts two of the top-rated private courses in the state. Pikewood National in Morgantown was named the "Best New Private Course in America" when it opened in 2009 and is currently ranked 3rd in the state by Golf Digest. The Pete Dye Club in Bridgeport is named "Best in State" by Golf Digest and it's the only course in West Virginia on GOLF Magazine's 2011 ranking of the "Top 100 Courses in the U.S." Other accolades for the course include being ranked 10th on GolfWeek's "Top 100 Modern Courses" and landing at number 45 on "America's 100 Greatest Courses" by Golf Digest in 2011.

The Pete Dye Club was built on 250 acres atop and around a reclaimed coal mine. The famed architect Pete Dye was involved in every aspect of the design and layout. And although Dye courses are notoriously difficult, as a members-only course, he tamed it down just a bit here so that golfers of all skill levels can enjoy. Yet it's still challenging enough to have hosted a Nationwide Tour event for several years.

Mountain Lakes

TRAVEL REGION

Palmer Course at Stonewall Resort, Roanoke

The newest and most upscale state park resort is located in the Mountain Lakes Region of central West Virginia. Stonewall Resort sits serenely on the shores of Stonewall Jackson Lake in Roanoke, WV. It's one of five large lakes in the region. Overnight lodging options here include a 198-room lodge and deluxe lakeside cottages. The resort also boasts an 18-hole Arnold Palmer signature golf course, state-of-the-art health and fitness facilities with indoor swimming pool, full-service spa, conference facilities, and two restaurants. Outdoor amenities include a marina with boat launch, fishing and pontoon boat rentals, swimming pool, and hiking and biking trails inside the Stonewall Resort State Park.

The Palmer Course at Stonewall Resort boasts narrow, tree-lined fairways to pedestal greens with lots of elevation changes in between. And it may just be the most highly acclaimed publicly-accessible tract in the state, having been named one of GOLF Magazine's "Top 10 New Courses You Can Play" and Golf Digest's second "Best New Course in America" when it opened. Celebrating ten years of operation, it's currently ranked number two in the state by Golfweek's "Best Courses You Can Play" and listed at number eight on Golf Digest's "Best in State" rankings. Stonewall Resort's course also landed 42nd on Golfweek's "Top 100 Resort Courses."

Golf writer, Gerry Dulac of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette described The Palmer Course best a few years after it opened: "The course has just about everything. Par 3s that play over water, par 4s that cut across wetlands and have subtle elevation changes and par 5s that weave through hardwoods and evergreens and around mounded sand bunkers. The 183-yard second hole might be the best par 3 in West Virginia; and the elevated tee shot at No. 13, a 450-yard, par 4, is almost as enticing as the view from the new Adirondack-style clubhouse and restaurant, which majestically overlooks the lodge and lake.”

The region also boasts several challenging 9-hole courses, including Riverbend Golf Club in Buckhannon and Cherry Hill Country Club in Richwood. Elevation changes and stone bridges add character to the picturesque setting of Riverbend Golf Club at EvUnBreth. The layout features two large ponds that come into play on seven holes, yet risk-reward options may take them out of play. The course is surprisingly difficult considering the fairways are flat and the greens are medium speed. Cherry Hill Country Club is located in a rural area on Hinkle Mountain. It’s a fun test of golf with wide-open fairways and small, target greens.

New River - Greenbrier Valley

TRAVEL REGION

The Meadows Course at The Greenbrier Resort, White Sulphur Springs

The New River-Greenbrier Valley Region is located in the southern part of the state. It's home to Winterplace Ski Resort, the New River Gorge Bridge, a 1700-foot span which is the longest steel arch bridge in the Western Hemisphere, and Tamarack, a unique cooperative project in Beckley which houses a collection of local arts and crafts and indigenous foods for sale.

In the New River-Greenbrier Valley Region, the renowned Greenbrier Resort beckons. The resort's first course, The Old White, was built in 1913 and recently underwent a restoration back to the original layout envisioned by renowned architect, C.B. Macdonald. In 2011, it was announced that The Old White Course was now The Old White TPC, joining the most prestigious golf courses in the nation within the PGA TOUR's The Tournament Player's Club Network. And in that vein, The Old White TPC will once again play host to The Greenbrier Classic, a PGA TOUR, FedEx Cup event the first weekend of July 2012.

The resort's second course, The Greenbrier, was redesigned by Jack Nicklaus in anticipation of hosting the 1979 Ryder Cup. Both Golfweek and GOLF Magazine recently named it the top course in the state in their respective public categories.

The Greenbrier Resort is listed as a National Historic landmark, with its classical architecture, beautifully manicured landscapes, plus a level of guest service which harkens back to bygone days. The resort ranks fifth in Golf Digest's list of "Best Golf Resorts" and two of the courses are on Golfweek's list of "Best Casino Courses." In addition to the three award-winning golf courses, a variety of recreational activities are available, including indoor and outdoor tennis courts and a 40,000-square-foot spa.

The most exciting addition is the resort's new 103,000 square-foot casino. It's open to resort guests and members only. The Casino Club at The Greenbrier provides world-class gaming, including table games and slots, plus live entertainment, international cuisine and unique shopping outlets, all located beneath the resort grounds. This historic resort offers traditional guestrooms and suites, as well as guest and estate houses for golf groups to choose. The Greenbrier is indeed a special place for golfers to experience Southern hospitality, exciting nightlife and the history of the game.

The Resort at Glade Springs is also located in the New River-Greenbrier Valley Region and boasts three championship courses. Designed by noted architect George

Cobb Course at The Resort at Glade Springs, Daniels

Cobb, the aptly-named Cobb Course features rolling fairways framed by mature forest leading up to some of the largest greens and bunkers you'll ever play. The resort's Stonehaven Course features non-returning nines and some of the most beautiful landscape around. It's currently rated 4 stars by Golf Digest and both it and the Cobb Course are in the top ten of Golf Digest's best in state list. The recently opened Woodhaven Course offers dramatic views overlooking Glade's Creek and mountainous terrain and offers a unique complement to the other two courses.

Lodging options at Glade Springs include rooms and suites in the Inn; two-room Executive Suites; four to six bedroom Chestnut Hill Lodges; and two and three bedroom Villas or Manor Houses, which allow golf groups to choose one bedroom, a floor of four bedrooms, or the entire house.

Grandview Country Club in Beaver provides many elevation changes and great views of the countryside. The front nine is a bit flat, while the back is much hillier. Water comes into play on several holes. This medium-length layout has three sets of teeboxes for a fun, challenging experience.

Additionally, two of the five state parks with golf courses are located in the region. Pipestem Resort State Park has two golf courses. The 18-hole championship course overlooks the Bluestone Canyon and the 9-hole short course is a challenging collection of par 3s. This state park resort boasts modern cottages and the hotel-style McKeever Lodge, overlooking the canyon. Nearby is Twin Falls State Park in Mullens. Water comes into play on 15 of the 18 holes here. Strategy rather than strength is called for on the George Cobb layout. Twin Falls offers a 48-room mountaintop lodge and 14 comfortable vacation cottages. Both state park courses in the region are given the prestigious 4 stars by Golf Digest's Places to Play.

Potomac Highlands

TRAVEL REGION

Raven Golf Club at Snowshoe Mountain

The Potomac Highlands Region of West Virginia is bordered by Virginia to the east and Maryland to the north. The Allegheny Mountains are most prominent in this region, which make it a draw for skiers and snowboarders during winter months. This same terrain has allowed golf course architects to create exciting and challenging layouts as well.

The Gary Player-designed Raven Golf Club at Snowshoe Mountain Resort is ranked the third best public course in the state and one of the best resort courses in the nation by Golfweek, plus it lands in the top ten of “Best in State” by Golf Digest. In designing this course, Player stuck close to the lay of the land. The front nine winds tightly through a hardwood forest and around several lakes, and then the layout climbs higher for the back nine, with cliff-side tee boxes offering scenic beauty and challenge. Although its slope rating doesn’t adequately reflect it, the course is one of the toughest in the state.

Golf packages are available at The Inn at Snowshoe but condos and townhomes are also available. Plus the village area of Snowshoe Mountain Resort has a variety of shopping, dining and nightlife options.

One of West Virginia’s hidden gem golf courses is located in the town of Franklin, The Highlands Golf Club at Fisher Mountain. Fisher Mountain is a new residential community which offers magnificently unspoiled mountain views, a world-class golf course and acreage homesites. Beginning with the first hole, a par 5, 525-yard downhill sloping fairway, golfers of all handicaps will enjoy The Highlands design. All along the way through 18 holes, the course is surrounded by many tall pines, narrow fairways and unique
